Yearbook Beauties Are Named By School

Miss Jana Brown was crowned the 1975 Miss Elba in the annual Elba High School beauty review last Thursday night.

Miss Brown will be featured in the 1975 edition of the ELBA as the top campus beauty. Runners-up in the contest were Jenny Hudson, Jennifer Young, Debbie Lee, and Freida Davis.

The Miss Elba contest is sponsored each year by the Yearbook Staff. Two representatives in each home room from grades 9-12 are elected by fellow classmates to participate in the contest. Forty young ladies participated in this year's contest.

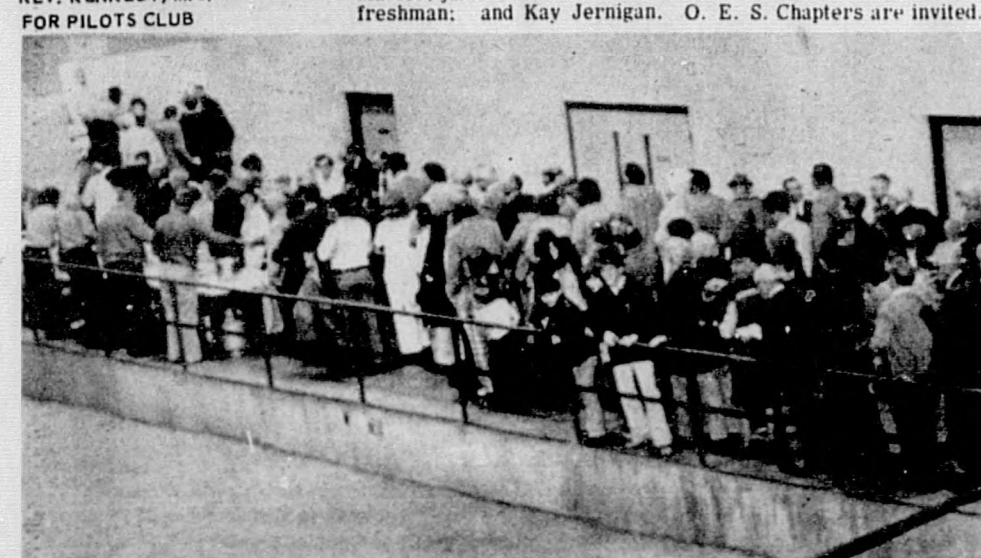

Jana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlan Brown of Elba. The lovely brunette is a junior at Elba High where she is active in various school activities. She is the captain of the Varsity cheerleaders and was an attendant in the Queen's Court during intermissions were Beverly Hargrove and Janet Miller; Jackie Prescott and "Danny" Davis, and the rock band of Johnny Davis, Greg Thompson, Phil Henson, Randy Phelps, and Mike Asher.

City of Elba Privilege License will be delinquent on February 1st. Penalty will be 15% of license fee, 6% annual interest, and $1.50 administrative fee.

Eastern Star To Meet Friday

Mrs. Evelyn Houtt, the Worthy Matron of Elba Chapter #223, Order of Eastern Star, announces that a very important district meeting and School of Instruction will be held in the Eastern Star Hall in Elba on Friday, January 31, 1975, at 7:30 p.m. All local members are urged to attend and members of other O. E. S. Chapters are invited.

New Sheriff Cracks Down On Whiskey

Four persons were arrested last Saturday night for illegal sale of alcoholic beverages and possession of alcoholic beverages in a dry county.

Those arrested, with several warrants on each person were: Ollie Carson, 66; Ozzie Frazier, 30; Billy D. Blue, 33; and Elsie Baker, 31.

The Coffee County Sheriff's Department raided four businesses which had been under surveillance for several weeks by ABC agents - the Citizens Club, Old Casino Club, Men's Progressive Club, and Billy Blue's Restaurant.

According to officials, undercover agents have made several purchases at these particular clubs.

All four persons were released early Sunday morning from the Coffee County Jail when they posted bond.

Assisting in the arrests were ABC representatives, Enterprise Police, and the Coffee County Sheriff's Department.

"I will stay on top of illegal sale of alcoholic beverages in Coffee County as long as this county remains dry," said Neil Granham, newly-sworn-in sheriff.

Commission Meeting Routine

In its regular monthly meeting on January 27, the Coffee County Commission awarded a contract for a safe for the Probate Office to Enterprise Office Supply, in the amount of $665.00, and one to Enterprise Office Supply of Ozark in the amount of $275.00 for the printing of Tax Assessor Sheets.

The committee for six months, and voted to ask for an LEPA Grant for office equipment for the Interior Court Judge and for the Interior Court Probation Office.

County's share would be $152.25 and the grant - $262.75.

They also heard a request from Mrs. Lucille McMinis for one more certification agent for the Food Stamp Program.

They voted for an agreement with RC & D for 50 miles of roads for Road Bank Stabilization work; and agreed to send the County Engineer to a Civil Defect meeting on February 4, 5 & 6.

COUNTY ENGINEER RESIGNS

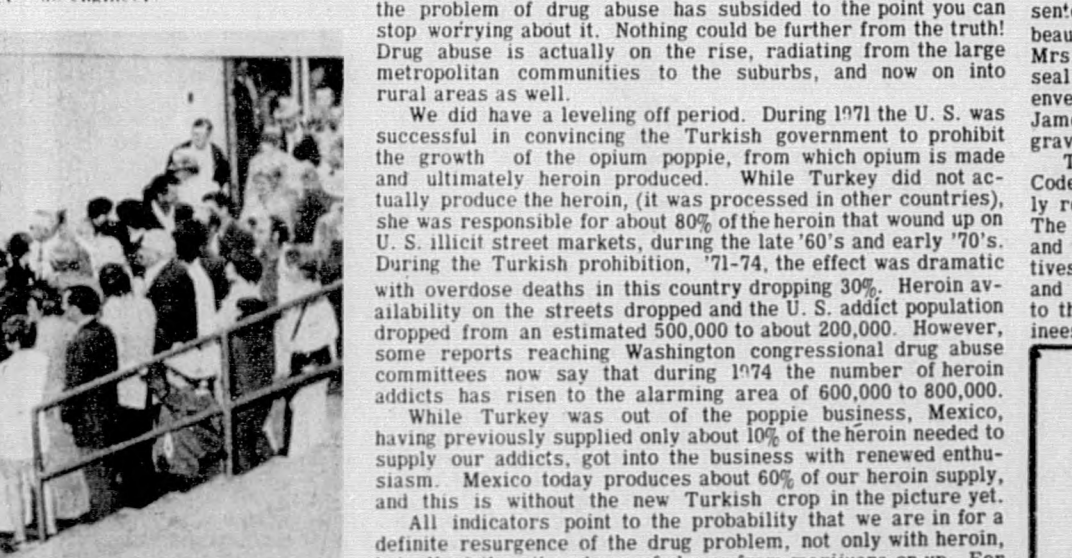

County Engineer O'Neil Ham has resigned his position as of February 28, according to letters mailed to each of the County Commissioners this week.

In confirming his action Wednesday morning to this newspaper, Ham said he was accepting a similar position with Houston County. Resigning with him is Assistant Engineer Billy Joe Johns. Johns came with Ham from Dale County and will go with him to Houston County.

The letter of resignation said Ham had enjoyed working with Coffee County. It also acknowledged that Coffee County has some of the best people in the world and continued "and also some of the best employees."

Ham told THE ELBA CLIPPER that he was available to return to Coffee County at least once a week to complete paper work on all federal projects underway at the time of his resignation. He said he had cleared this with the State Highway Department before submitting his resignation.

Ham said he was taking this action to avoid leaving Coffee County in a bind while they were finding someone to replace him as engineer.

POOR ORIGINAL

BRAINSTORMS

With Fern Cox

Our Alabama Legislature is off to a roaring start. Those pore uniformed folks worked hard for election to the office, not knowing that they were greatly underpaid for all their hard work. However, they took care of the problem forthwith. . . they voted themselves a raise in their expense account. Now, they can't raise their pay without a vote of the people, but expense accounts are another matter. Also, very wisely continuing their learned actions, the vote for the raise was a voice vote, meaning any lawmaker can swear/affirm that he voted AGAINST the raise and no one can prove otherwise. Maybe I set my hopes too high, but my dream was that this group had gotten the word from the voters that we want different attitudes in Montgomery for a while. . . it must be that I remember politics the way the ninth grade civics books explained them and not the way they actually unfold.

The City of Elba has had its share of resigning during the past few years. At this point, with those still there harboring some bitterness with their peers - more than likely each and every one of our elected officials has loved with the idea of resigning himself. However, most people I have discussed this with feel as I do on the matter. Elba can ill afford any more resigning of elected or appointed officials. Right now we need for things to settle down and if nothing else these people should vote to hold everything together until election time. Then they can be replaced by the voters or given a vote of confidence by the electorate. There is still time for positive action by our Council, but not if they quarrel among themselves or if there are more resignations from their group or from key appointed officials. Oh, up, gentlemen!

I sat and listened to our County Commissioners vote Monday to pay their part, with LEPA, for a desk and chair for the probation officer. Then, in the next breath they postponed voting to pay part of his salary beginning in April! I hope, that when it is all over, these men have not bought an office and fired the only person entitled to use it, all in the same day!

We all like to think we can solve the world problems if given the chance. However, most of us only get the chance to talk to other budding experts and never get the chance to try our ideas. When the folks who are getting paid to be experts happen on the same ideas as budding experts have, we stick out our chest and advise that person for being so smart. Well, last week I read where an expert finally agreed with me on the real basis for present economic conditions. He says (and I agree) that all our "little folks" have lost confidence in everything, and before conditions improve much, these same "little folks" must have a change of opinion and start buying again. Now, it will take millions of us doing this before it will be successful, and we need some reason, but it will work. . . but let's wait a while. . . OK.

Of course after finding an expert that agrees with me, I am faced with admitting an error if the idea doesn't work. But rather than admit error, I have already figured out that it wasn't the idea that was wrong, but the way the knockheads carried it out!

The Girl Scouts are selling cookies again. I look forward each year to this event, cause they sell some mighty good cookies. At one time I would buy some from each little girl that asked me, but since getting a daughter of my own selling, I am in sort of a bind. Now I watch the sparkle quickly fade from a girl's eye when I say I have already bought. But, being young, the sparkle soon returns as they charge another "victim"!

Letter To The Editor

Dear Fern: The following comments are directed to two articles which appeared in your January 16 edition of The Clipper. "ZIG-LAR RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF UTILITIES" and "BRAINSTORMS".

As a former employee of the City of Elba, I can now voice an opinion on the activities at City Hall. During the few months I worked at City Hall with Mr. Ziglar, I will have to say he certainly did devote "ALL" his time to the welfare of the City. The majority of the public does not realize the many headaches and heartaches involved in the job of being Mayor. And I am sure you are aware of the many stirring hours the Mayor devoted to the City. I am quite sure

Sincerely,
S. Linda Wilkins

Alabama's U.S. Senator

Jim Allen Reports
To The PeopleActions On Economy Measures
Will Be In Best Interests
Of Country

In past years when a Congress organized for action, the main thrust of public speculation was on what new legislation would be offered, what arguments would erupt and what bills would be passed or defeated.

With the convening of the 94th Congress on January 14, however, it was clearly apparent that the main business of the Senate and of the House would be acting on legislation dealing with the recession and inflation which are threatening to undermine our economy, and are causing so much hardship among our people.

CONGRESSMAN BILL DICKINSON

When Will We Fix The Roof?

People have been asking, "What do you think of President Ford's proposals to get us out of this recession, and will they work?" I have mixed emotions.

The President's proposal to cut a tax cut, a politically popular thing to do, especially since the liberal-controlled Congress is also calling for a tax cut. It is rather unusual, however, that in less than six months the President has turned 17 degrees from his originally proposed five percent surtax. To be sure, a tax cut rebate will stimulate the economy, but what about inflation?

He proposed an increase in the crude oil tax, a politically unpopular thing to do. Unfortunately, an increase in the price of crude oil not only amounts to a gas tax, an on-again-off-again proposal, but an increase in all petrochemical products the energy produced by oil. I share the President's desire to achieve energy self-sufficiency, but I question the effectiveness of a crude oil tax.

One wonders if the increase in utility rates, gas prices and the cost of goods with a petroleum base will not offset tax savings that might occur from a tax rebate. I do, however, find that a substantial agreement with the President's other energy proposals.

I applied the President's efforts to restrain government spending by calling for new programs this year except those for energy and asking for a

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I read in the newspaper where more than 800 government officials in Washington have chaffed-driven limousines. I think this is a flamboyant waste of the taxpayers' money and I urge you to do what you can to stop this outrageous spending. I, S. Gullman

SPARKMAN: As a member of Congress I do not have a chauffeur-driven limousine, and frankly, I feel that the use of chauffeur-driven limousines by so many government officials is not justified. This is especially true when such limousines are used for personal rather than official matters. I am confident that something will be done about this in the 94th Congress.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: The attention of the world seems to be drawn to the Middle East. I am afraid that our government is neglecting our very important relationships with the many nations of the Western Hemisphere. I hope that under your chairmanship,

Chills and Fever

By George Hagedorn
Vice President and Chief Economist
National Association of Manufacturers

THERE is no question but that we have a sick economy. However, the exact nature and causes of the economic ills are subjects of confusion and debate. Until all this is resolved, there is little likelihood that we will be able to apply effective remedies.

The chief source of confusion is the misconception that the economy is suffering from, not one, but two separate and distinct maladies: rising unemployment, and continuing steep price rises. And so we have a national debate as to whether the economic doctors in Washington should devote their primary efforts to solving (a) the unemployment problem or (b) the inflation problem.

We have no intention here of taking part in this debate, to give our readers our own views as to whether inflation-fighting or unemployment-fighting would have first priority. We are, rather, distressed at seeing so much of the national debate on economic policy conducted in these terms. The whole notion that our first problem is to decide whether we will deal with inflation, or make a 180 degree turn in policy and deal with unemployment, is a sad misunderstanding of our economic situation.

The specter, reminds us of a group of doctors gathered around a patient who is suffering from both chills and fevers. Half of the doctors argue that the primary object should be to treat the chills by warming the patient up. The other half argues that the first objective should be to counteract the fever by cooling the patient off.

It would be clear even to the average layman that our hypothetical patient had fallen into very inexperienced hands. He would perceive that to identify, and prescribe for, the chills, or fever, should be treated first is largely beside the point. The real problem is to identify, and prescribe for, the underlying illness which has produced this combination of symptoms.

Contrary to a widespread impression, the recession-within-a-recession is not a new and unprecedented development in the American economy. We can cite two examples from previous history, each instructive in its own way.

The first example is the recession of 1957-58. During the course of that economic contraction, the price level continued to rise about as fast as in the boom period just prior.

The second example is the recession of 1969-70. Then too, we were distressed to find prices rising about as fast as before, while the economy was turning down and unemployment was rising.

These two examples are enlightening, as much for their differences as for their similarities. During and after the recession of 1958, our national leadership resisted the temptation to deal with the unemployment problem with all-out fiscal and monetary stimulation. This course of restraint was pursued (although not without some travail—we had another recession in 1960) until the middle of the next decade. The end result was a period of stable prices, economic growth, the best record for sustained productivity improvement since World War II, and unemployment in the neighborhood of 5 percent, lasting until about 1965.

By contrast, the history after the 1970 recession was quite different. The Nixon Administration's New Economic Program, promulgated in mid-1971, resulted in practice in large budget deficits and rapid monetary expansion. It was hoped that the inflationary effects of these policies could be suppressed by wage and price controls. By now we all know the end result: it is the inflation-recession syndrome we are now witnessing.

Economic policy made a U-turn in 1971—from anti-inflationary restraint to anti-unemployment expansionism. By now we ought to have learned that repeated U-turns may be a way of avoiding rough ground, but they are not a way of making forward progress.

There are differences in degree between what we are now experiencing and what happened during the 1958 and 1970 incidents. Neither the chill of unemployment, nor the fever of inflation, were nearly as bad then as they are (or are likely to become) this time. But the principle is the same and the lesson is clear: fiscal and monetary restimulation makes the underlying disease, of which both price rises and unemployment increases are symptoms, worse.

We will not try to prescribe here a detailed course of treatment for the American economy's ailment. But the first step must be a recognition that we are dealing with one disease, and stop arguing over which symptoms we will treat first.

Although ornamental gourds do grow as vines and need plenty of room, they can be grown up a chain-link fence, trellis or chicken wire to save space, and they need a good sunny location.

Male and female flowers grow on the same plant. You can tell the females by the immature baby gourd at the base of each flower. When it is pollinated by an insect carrying pollen from the male flower, the baby gourd will then grow quite fast.

The gourds should be picked when the vines produce hard, odd-shaped gourds. Some look like pumpkins and others like gourds. They are perfect for making into decorative items.

Another trick, while the gourds are half-grown is to scratch your child's name on the skin. Where the skin is scratched the gourd will form a scar, and as it grows your child's name will be permanently displayed, growing bigger as the gourd grows big.

If you want to make a child happy give him a packet of gourd seeds to plant. The seeds are large and easy to handle — like pumpkin seeds and they like to be planted directly into the garden — after all danger of frost. Once in the ground, they germinate quickly and grow at the rate of several inches a day.

CLEAR SIGNALS

When things don't go right at home, we are like a football team that has its signals mixed up. We might be able to get along better with our parents if we could follow the signals. We don't know exactly what our parents expect of us. We are uncertain about just what the rules are. And parents may be just as puzzled — they don't know our signals either. For example, the time we come home at night. Could it just be that our parents have a right to feel uneasy when we don't show up on time? Did we clear our signals before we left so they would know where we are, who we are with, and approximately when we'd be home? And did our parents clear their signals with us? Did they let us know what they thought was a reasonable hour to come in? If our signals didn't check, could we have taken time to talk it over and reach some agreement with our parents? True, things are quite different than when our parents were our age, but not so different that we cannot work out some signals that will work for all concerned. Try talking sincerely. Communicate!

Church News

The Pastor's Corner
Rev. Edwin Sells
"CONSERVING THE FAMILY HERITAGE"

This past weekend our church was privileged to have a Christian Family Enrichment Conference. We searched our hearts to recover some of the great traditions and commandments of the Christian home. I am reminded of the verse in Exodus 20:12, "Honor thy father and thy mother, that is the first commandment." It is a commandment that may be long in the land which the Lord thy God gives thee. Parents in Israel held a very high place, duty toward them stood next to duty toward God. So this commandment comes in exactly the right place, among the Ten. It has been described as a bridge connecting these commandments dealing with our relation to God and our relation to men, and it emphasizes both relationships. Father and mother were given a high place because, to the baby and the very young child, they have the same relationship that God holds to the adult—they are lawgiver, provider, and controller. A Sunday School teacher described God as "kind, good, strong, thoughtful, loving, One who could conquer the world. One never afraid and who guards His children into His arms when they are afraid." Then she asked her boys if that description made them think of anyone they knew. One boy said immediately, "That's my father!"

We make a mistake when we think of this fifth commandment as applying only to children; it refers to men and women in adult life. The word "honor" has a much larger meaning than the word "obedience"; it means to hold in high opinion, or to reverence, even when a son is grown to man's estate, or when a daughter has daughters of her own. The Hebrews kept this law as we as Christians have to take our hats off even now to our Jewish friends for the excellent job they do in home rearing and training. There is very little disrespect for fathers and mothers in Jewish homes. One has only to travel to modern Israel to see the difference in the respect of Jewish children for their parents as compared with our gross, disrespectful often for parents and authority. There is no way around it—a spirit of respect and reverence for parents is a part of the Jewish heritage, and the individual home. THOUGHT FOR TODAY: "As parents, let us be worthy of the reverence and respect of our children."

Week Of Prophecy Continues

RETIREMENT FOR EDUCATORS
Educators qualified under Alabama's Teachers' Retirement System who have withdrawn funds and wish to reinstate prior service may do so through September 1, 1975. Dr. David G. Bronner, secretary-treasurer, Teachers' Retirement System of Alabama, told more than 100 Wiregrass educators at ESJC. Dr. Bronner spoke Thursday at a State Teachers' Retirement meeting. He said that Act No. 1125 allows members who, for any reason, withdrew funds to reestablish the period by repaying the withdrawal so the time will count towards retirement.

Educators must write the Teachers' Retirement System of Alabama in Montgomery to find out what amount is to be repaid and they must repay it before the deadline. Dr. Bronner said.

Harvey Watt, financial aid officer at ESJC will be on campus during winter quarter, from 8 a.m. till Noon each Saturday. He will serve students, veterans and others needing financial assistance at the college.

Many types of financial aid are available for those meeting certain requirements. The work-study program is supported by federal and institutional funds. Students work up to 15 hours per week on campus and earn money while they learn.

Education Opportunity Grants, National Defense Student Loans, Federally Insured Loans, Criminal Justice Education Grants and Veterans benefits are also available through the ESJC Financial Aid Office.

Those wishing to see Watt on Saturdays may call during the week for an appointment. However, he will see persons without an appointment.

ESJC'S WINTER QUARTER
ENROLLMENT SETS
NEW RECORD
Enrollment at Enterprise State Junior College soared to a record 2,855 during winter quarter—a 67 percent increase over last year—according to B. A. Forrester, president.

Forrester said for the first time in the school's ten year history the total winter quarter enrollment exceeded fall quarter by 11 percent. Fall quarter enrollment was 2,571. The total full-time-equivalent (FTE) was also up. This year's winter quarter FTE is 1,666 compared to 1,083 last year. Fall quarter FTE was 1,590.

Tommy Guthrie, dean of admissions, said that increases are reflected in all areas of the school program. "We now have more than 350 veterans enrolled in our day and evening college transfer program," Guthrie said.

On February 5, 1975, Parliament passed acts forbidding six American colonies from trading with anyone except the British.

On February 6, 1775, the Second Provincial Congress of Massachusetts declared its Committee of Safety to make provisions for war.

GREAT DECISIONS 1975

Wiregrass citizens will have an opportunity to "sound off" and learn about foreign policy at the short course, "Great Decisions 1975," beginning February 5. Philip Howard will instruct the course, scheduled from 7 to 8:15 p.m. each Wednesday through April 2. There will be no cost.

Howard said the course will cover such topics as "The World Food Problems," "The Soviet Union Today," "Brazil: Pacesetter for Latin America," "Our Changing World Economy," "Controlling Nuclear Weapons," "Japan," "The Oil States of the Persian Gulf," and "The Oceans and the Seabed."

COMMUNITY CHORUS

Singers in the Wiregrass interested in performing in an Easter presentation of "Seven Last Words" may enroll in a Community Chorus short course at Enterprise State Junior College.

Dr. Bob Bicknell, chairman Fine Arts Division said that no fee will be charged and that the course will be through sopranos, altos, tenors and basses will be needed for the chorus. The chorus will be directed by Dr. Bicknell and his wife, Pat, will be the accompanist.

Classes begin Mon., February 4, and end from 7 to 9 p.m. through March 24. To register, send name, address and social security number to: Women's Program, Enterprise State Junior College, 1212 S. 1st St., Elba, Ala. 36527.

PERSONS SCHEDULED AT ESJC
A seminar designed to provide practical information concerning consumer fraud and personal safety for retired persons will be held at Enterprise State Junior College from 9 to 11:15 a.m., Wednesday, February 12, 1975.

The half-day seminar, The Retirement Years: Protecting Your Person and Your Pocketbook, will begin with registration from 8 to 9 a.m. Set. Billy Joe Livingston, safety education and public relations officer, Dothan District, Alabama Department of Public Safety, will discuss Personal Safety for the Retired Person from 9 to 10 a.m.

Livingston is a native of Houston County and has been with the Department of Public Safety since 1963. He has an associate degree in Law Enforcement and is working toward a bachelor's degree in criminal justice.

Consumer concerns of the Retired Person will be the topic of Mrs. Annie Laurie Gunter, director, Alabama Department of Consumer Protection.

Mrs. Gunter was the first woman to serve in Governor Wallace's cabinet. She was appointed Coordinator of the Office of Highway and Traffic Safety in July 1971 and to her present position in March 1972.

A Dutch lunch is sponsored by the Women's Program under the direction of Mrs. Mary Bauer and no fee will be charged. Persons planning to attend the Dutch luncheon should contact the Women's Program office at 347-2623.

Mrs. Bauer said that anyone may attend. To register, call or send name, address and social security number to the Registrar, Enterprise State Junior College.
